WELCOME

You won't need a leprechaun or four-leaf clover to bring you luck — just check out the exciting new products and super deals in the March Walthers Flyer!

Expand operations on HO layouts with a wide range of new releases, including the Cornerstone Industry Office kit, new WalthersProto War-Emergency Hoppers, Offset Boxcars and Sieco Pulpwood flats, along with affordably priced WalthersMainline Sliding Door Boxcars and Centerbeam Flats. The complete list of new Flyer Firsts begins on page 4 inside.

For some savin' o' the green, we've got great deals on selected lighting products on pages 10-14, and HO Flexi-Van Flatcars and accessories on page 20.

Remember, you can find out more about these new models at walthers.com, by calling us at 1-800-487-2467, or visit your participating hobby shop to reserve any new product in this issue.

Happy modeling!

ON THE COVER

When your favorite recipe calls for tons of flour and sugar, it's time to call the railroads for help! Since the early 1960s, General American Airslide® Covered Hoppers have made it easier to ship and unload all kinds of powdered materials. On the prototypes, a special fabric liner allows compressed air to pass through the load, so it flows more easily into the discharge chutes below. Nicely detailed and affordably priced, read all about Walthers new HO Scale Airslide Hoppers (#932-60950 – 60953) on page 8 in this issue!

Super Savings on Fabulous Flexi-Vans

In 1957 New York Central tested the Flexi-Van system, featuring low-profile skeleton cars and special trailers with removable wheels (bogies). The lightweight design was well suited for fast freight runs and many were later modified for passenger trains. Although successful, the Flexi-Van system was eclipsed in the late 70s by 89' flatcars built to handle trailers and/or containers.

Did You Know?
Digital Command Control, or DCC for short, can provide lots of exciting ways to run your railroad.

Using computer technology, the systems send commands through the rails to onboard receivers, called "decoders," mounted in locos. This gives you completely independent control of each train without complicated wiring — and a wide range of special lighting and sound effects are also offered on many models to add to the fun.

Decoders can also be used in more simple applications to control lights and other functions on cars. They can also operate various stationary accessories along the right-of-way such as turnouts and signals, directly from your DCC throttle.

Did You Know?

Brick buildings are common in towns and cities of every size, and a favorite for model structures as well. But not all bricks are alike, a detail that can be brought to life with paint.

Start with an "earth tone" (most bricks are made from clay) as the base color. Choose some additional shades that are lighter and darker, and paint individual bricks at random.

GOODBYE SNOW!

When winter delivered its absolute worst, railroads fought back with rotary snowplows. Introduced in the late 1880s, rotaries used a large, spinning wheel to cut snowdrifts down to size, forcing the loose snow into scoops, then hurling it away from the tracks.
